

HEALTH VIEWS

Subtle New Beauty? It's Probably Fat Injection.

Q. I have noticed subtle beauty enhancements of both a high profile entertainer and a wife of a governor. What are they getting?

A. Since 1999, I have been speaking at meetings of the American Academy of Cosmetic Surgery about the subtle beauty enhancement of Autologous Fat Injection. It became a specialty of our practice then, and in recent years has become the number one "under the radar screen" enhancement procedure across the country.

When fat is taken from a hip and transplanted into sunken cheeks and tired looking faces, the results are very impressive, yet subtle and very natural looking. Down time with fat injection is so minimal that nobody knows. Autologous means supplied by the patient's own body. Just some of the great things about autologous fat, are that it is safe, cost effective, cannot be rejected, and can last for many years without needing repeat treatments. Early drooping cheeks are lifted by the cheek enhancement. It enhances eyes by creating more reflection of light between the cheek and the eye. Fat injection into flat or gaunt cheek bone areas, is one of the few rejuvenation procedures that not only makes a woman look younger, it makes a woman more attractive.

AFI very likely is the reason for your observations of famous people looking more beautiful in very subtle ways.

As a strong proponent of this special service, we offer free information and free consultation about Autologous Fat Injection.

Steven L Harlan, MD
Medical Director
Dermatology and Dermatologic Surgery Center
515-225-8180